Worksheet 2.2: The Night & Day Reflection Log

> A gentle invitation from Autumn: "Knowledge is the first step, but self-awareness is where true transformation happens. My invitation for you is to use this log to track your progress over the next month. Each day, take 5-10 minutes for this gentle curiosity. What connections can you find between how you sleep and how you feel? There is no judgment here, only learning."

Your 30-Day Reflection Log

At the end of each day, fill out a row in the log below. Be honest and compassionate with yourself. The goal is to see the "upward spiral" in action and to build a powerful awareness of your own mind-body connection.

Day	Last Night's Sleep Quality (e.g., Poor, Fair, Good, Great)	My Mood & Emotions Today How was my emotional resilience? (e.g., patient, irritable, calm, anxious)	My Focus & Clarity Today When did I feel focused or foggy?	Connections I Noticed What link did I see between my sleep and my day?

> A final thought from Autumn: "As you fill this out, you are gathering evidence of your own progress. You're proving to yourself, day by day, that the effort you put in at night directly nourishes your mind and mood the next day. This awareness is a powerful motivator. Keep up this beautiful work."
