Understanding & Managing Anger: From Reactivity to Response

An 8-lesson CBT course for understanding anger patterns and building healthier expression

Anger Is Not the Enemy

Everyone gets angry. Anger is one of the most basic human emotions — as natural as fear, sadness, or joy. It tells you something feels wrong, unfair, or threatening.

The goal of this course is not to eliminate anger — it's to understand it, catch it earlier, and respond in ways that actually serve you.

🛡️ Protects Boundaries

Signals when limits are crossed

⚖️ Detects Injustice

Alerts you to unfairness

🔥 Motivates Change

Drives action and advocacy

When Anger Becomes a Problem

Problem anger isn't defined by feeling angry — it's defined by how it shows up and what it costs you.

1

Intensity

Explosive reactions that feel out of proportion to the situation

2

Frequency

Constant irritability that colors everyday interactions

3

Duration

Holding grudges for days, unable to let go

4

Impact

Damaged relationships, deep regret, and real consequences

Underneath anger often lives hurt, fear, shame, or depression. This course helps you see what's really there.

What You'll Learn

Recognize Patterns

Distinguish healthy anger from problem anger and identify your personal triggers, body warning signs, and escalation patterns

Cool the Body

Arousal-reducing techniques including breathing, relaxation, and strategic time-outs that interrupt the anger cycle

Challenge Thoughts

Identify and reframe anger-fueling thought patterns: "shoulds," mind-reading, and catastrophizing

Express Assertively

Learn the difference between suppression, aggression, and healthy expression using I-statements and active listening

Understand Emotions

Recognize the emotions underneath anger and repair relationships after conflict

RESEARCH SAYS

The Myth of Venting

Research has consistently shown that "letting it out" — punching pillows, screaming, venting — actually increases anger, not decreases it.

So what actually works?

Understand the Cycle

See how triggers, thoughts, and reactions connect

Cool Down the Body

Physiological regulation before anything else

Challenge the Thoughts

Reframe the stories fueling the fire

Express Needs Assertively

Communicate without damage

Course Structure

8

Lessons

Structured, progressive modules

10

Hours

8–10 hours of guided content

🧠 CBT-Based

Strategies grounded in Cognitive Behavioral Therapy — the gold standard for anger management

📋 Self-Paced

Work through lessons on your own schedule, at your own pace

🔬 Evidence-Based

Techniques proven to reduce anger intensity and protect the relationships that matter most